In its campaign called "The Vision Care We Deserve," the Canadian Council of the Blind sent letters to every Minister and Deputy Minister of Health, urging a greater priority on vision care for Canadians. The CCB is concerned about the impact of the aging population on Canadian eye care. As the population ages, one out of four Canadians will develop a vision impairment. A poll shows that over 80% say the loss of vision is their most feared disability, compared to loss of hearing (3%), loss of a leg (4%) or loss of an arm (2%). F

In Laval, Quebec, the Sports Vision Centre has become the world's first to offer NeuroTracker, Dynaboard and neurofeedback/biofeedback in the same location. Besides bringing the latest in sports sciences technologies together under one roof, Sports Vision Centre wished to make them accessible to all athletes, rather than to professionals only. NeuroTracker was developed in the optometry and psychophysics lab of Dr. Jocelyn Faubert of the Université de Montréal. F

Essilor has become the first lens manufacturer to obtain an external endorsement of its wearer-testing protocols. The French company has tested each generation of lenses in real life situations with wearers before launch since 1978. Its protocols have earned the accreditation of professor José Sahel's team, of the Research Center 968 – INSERM – University Pierre et Marie Curie in Paris. Sahel is widely recognized as one of the world's leading experts in ophthalmology.

At the American Optometric Association's annual meeting, recently held in Salt Lake City, Bausch + Lomb marked its 40th anniversary of the introduction of the first contact lenses. The company showcased some of its innovations, including Biotrue, a solution that works like the eyes to help lenses stay clean and moist throughout the day. F

In Italy, authorities recently seized 560,000 pairs of sunglasses considered to be a health hazard. The eyeglasses, made in China, were on display in a store with price tags that were well below market prices, which is what caught the

First images of photoreceptors in the human eye
American researchers have captured clear images of photoreceptors in the living human eye, using adaptive optics. This technology allows astronomers to correct the blurring effect of Earth's atmosphere. In the case of the eye, it corrects the distortion of the outer eye, revealing the eye's cellular structure with unprecedented detail. This innovation will help doctors diagnose degenerative eye disorders sooner, leading to more effective treatments. F

! Selling glasses to vacationers

In France, the Alain Afflelou group has thought up an original way to make a profit from the considerable traffic generated by summer vacation. The company has signed an agreement with Vinci Autoroute to open temporary stores, similar to mobile homes, in parking lots and road stops along certain highways. They exclusively offer Alain Afflelou sunglasses as well as Forty and E-Forty frames. No prescription lenses are sold.

📢 New products and promotions

Zyloware will be releasing several new styles in August. The Sophia Loren M225 frame has an oval shape and features a stainless steel temple with spring hinges. It is available in pink and cognac. Three new Stetson frames (282, 283 and 284) will also be released. The 282 is a semi-rimless frame, available in gunmetal or brown, that is enhanced by a laser pattern. The two other models feature a full rim and are available in grey and brown. The 283 is made of zyl and has a metal temple, whereas the 284 is made entirely of metal. Both brands are distributed in Canada by Opal Optical.

➤ Agreements and partnerships

Novagali Pharma is entering the North American market as the result of an agreement signed with Ardeo Health for the distribution of its dry eye treatment in the United States and Canada. Ardeo Health will distribute Nova23041

under the brand name Retaine MGD. It is a preservative-free eyewash. OCuSOFT will promote the product, which earned Novagali Pharma over $836,000 in royalties in 2010. F

The acquisition of 50% of Shamir Optical by Essilor is now complete. This $130-million investment was announced on October 15, 2010. The management team of the Israeli company, which reported revenues of $158 million in 2010, will remain in place. With this transaction, Essilor hopes to expand its product offering in the mid-tier segment of the industry, and Shamir expects accelerated development.

SPEND A WEEKEND AT THE TORONTO FILM FESTIVAL, COURTESY OF TRANSITIONS OPTICAL AND ET CANADA

Fans of film and Transitions® lenses have a chance to experience the best of international and Canadian film through a new promotion from Transitions Optical and ET Canada. One eyecare professional and two consumers will win access for themselves and a guest to one of the biggest cinematic events of the year – the Toronto Film Festival!

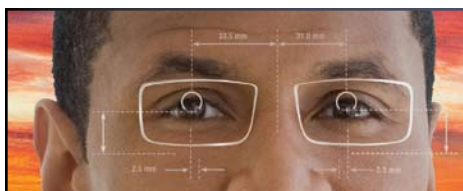

To enter, eyecare professionals must log on to Transitions.com/Festival to answer a question about the key benefits of Transitions lenses. Consumers should enter at ETCanada.com/Transitions.

The contest runs from July 25 to August 21 for consumers, and from July 5 to August 21 for eyecare professionals. As part of the weekend-long trip to attend the festival, winners will also receive a prize package for two containing movie tickets, VIP passes to exclusive events, hotel accommodations, and more!

You and your patients may hear about the contest through online advertising or from a 15-second commercial and live mentions during ET Canada programming this July.

You can use this promotion to your business' advantage and also give your patients a chance to win by simply mentioning the contest while you review the benefits of Transitions lenses with them in-office. You can also share the ETCanada.com/Transitions link on your practice website or Facebook page.
